

Laura Bray: Case Study

One of our volunteers, Laura Bray talks to us about her role within our charity.

What attracted you to start volunteering for Hope for Tomorrow?

I knew I wanted to volunteer at a cancer charity, and when searching through different charities, I loved what Hope for Tomorrow stood for and once I'd researched into the charity; I knew this was the right one.

Talk us through your role...

I am a spare pair of hands. I help wherever they need me whether it be computer admin, stuffing envelopes, sorting stock or helping at events.

What do you enjoy about your volunteering role?

I love that I feel like I am helping and making a difference. Even the little jobs go a long way and everyone is very grateful.

What impact does your volunteering role have on the charity?

In the past I have advertised on social media and this brings awareness to the charity which is always a positive. Also all the admin behind the scenes makes everyone's jobs that little bit easier, allowing them to concentrate on more for the charity.

Have your experiences matched your expectations?

Yes!

What skills have you developed through your experience of volunteering through Hope for Tomorrow?

I have learnt computer skills such as how to control the social media pages and upload content or using excel. I have also learnt organisational skills.
